

Respondent called as witnesses Heather Schneider, Traci Boggs, John Shryock, Robert Riso and Shanna Mitton.

At the conclusion of the evidence, counsel for both parties elected to give oral closing arguments in lieu of submitting written closing arguments. At the end of the closing arguments, the matter was deemed submitted for decision.

II. ISSUES

The issues of fact and law in this case are presented in the final prehearing order:

VIII. ISSUES OF FACT

1. Did Charging Party perform her daily job duties in a satisfactory manner?
2. Was Charging Party disciplined for poor performance?
3. Was Charging Party sexually harassed by co-workers, assistant and kitchen managers?
4. Did Charging Party engage in and often initiate the conduct and conversation of which she is complaining?
5. Did Charging Party complain to Respondent of sexual harassment?
6. Was Charging Party discharged after complaining of sexual harassment?
7. Was Charging Party discharged for poor job performance, after repeated notice of same?
8. If Charging Party is entitled to recover, how was she harmed, and what order should issue to remedy that harm?
9. Are there facts proved which mandate affirmative relief against Respondent?

IX. ISSUES OF LAW

1. Has Charging Party established a prima facie case of either sexual harassment or retaliation?
2. If so, has Respondent rebutted the prima facie case?
3. Is there a public policy basis for imposing affirmative obligations upon Respondent to prevent recurrence of any demonstrated illegal discrimination?

Final Prehearing Order, pp. 3-4.

III. FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Caryn Kennedy is the charging party. Respondent is BE Team Limited Partnership, a Montana Partnership, doing business as Dos Amigos, Robert Riso, general partner (hereinafter referred to as "Dos Amigos"). Dos Amigos had sold the Kalispell operation to others prior to 1993. Dos Amigos resumed operation of the establishment in February of 1993, taking it back from the previous operators. Two general partners, Riso and John Shryock, were directly involved in the operation of this restaurant starting in February of 1993. Riso was the direct manager of this restaurant. Shryock worked there, but spent less time in this restaurant and left management decisions to Riso. Riso did consult with Shryock about management decisions.

2. The parties stipulated that charging party was employed by respondent as a waitress at the Kalispell Dos Amigos restaurant from February 1993 until June 9, 1993.

1 3. The possibility of a problem between Caryn Kennedy and some of the cooks was 2 known to Dos Amigos from the beginning. Kennedy was working for the previous operators at 3 the restaurant as assistant manager when Dos Amigos resumed operations in February of 1993.
4 She was offered a waitress position by Dos Amigos. Riso asked her then whether she would be 5 comfortable as a waitress, working with cooks over whom she had exercised supervision as an 6 assistant manager. She assured him it would not be a problem.

7 4. It did become a problem, almost immediately. Joe House, one of the cooks who 8 worked regularly during her shift, bore some personal animosity toward her. Joined by Ed Horn, 9 another of the cooks, he engaged in a campaign of harassment by cursing Kennedy, making crude 10 and offensive sexual comments toward her, and occasionally touching her inappropriately. The 11 two cooks were supervised by John Vantresca.

12 5. Kennedy was sexually harassed by Horn and House and also by the cook supervisor, 13 Vantresca. At least one other male employee of Dos Amigos also participated in the harassment 14 (John Badewitz, identified as a manager in the Dos Amigos in Whitefish and a part-time cook in 15 the Kalispell restaurant where Kennedy worked).

16 6. Kennedy complained to Vantresca about the harassment. Testimony of this complaint 17 is un rebutted. No action was taken on her complaint. Riso and Shryock denied receiving notice 18 of any such complaint.

19 7. Kennedy did not engage in or initiate the conduct and conversation of which she 20 complained. Her dress and behavior at work did not invite the harassment.

21 8. The sexual harassment occurred regularly, with multiple instances happening during 22 each shift worked by Horn and House. Blanc, Burrett and Randall, as well as charging party, 23 testified to multiple instances of harassment. Specific instances proved at hearing illustrate the 24 tone and degree of harassment involved. Horn and House called Kennedy a "fucking bitch" and 25 like terms, on a daily basis. They made sexual comments about appearance, such as the 26 appearance of Kennedy's nipples. They directed sexually suggestive behavior with and 27 comments about the food being prepared toward Kennedy. In another instance, Kennedy 28 received a written note from Ed Horn, after he and House had discussed oral sex in her presence.
The note she received read, "Do you swallow?" Kennedy, in a joking reference to the hostility

1 of the two, suggested once that House would like to drown her. Horn responded, "We'd like to 2 get you by your neck and drown you in semen." In one instance, Badewitz told Kennedy that the 3 kitchen staff, including the kitchen supervisor, "were discussing how we'd like to get you out on 4 our property and tie you to a tree and butt fuck you to death." Burrett and Randall recognized 5 this comment as something they had heard at work.

6 9. Other women serving customers at the restaurant were also subjected to the 7 harassment, to a lesser degree. Dana Burrett confronted Horn and House about their 8 unacceptable behavior. They stopped directing comments toward her. Blanc and Randall 9 avoided the two cooks, staying away from them as much as possible. Because of the "vendetta" 10 Joe House was conducting against Kennedy, she was unable to avoid the harassment.

11 10. Kennedy did complain of sexual harassment during her employment. Riso and 12 Shryock categorically denied receiving complaints of "sexual harassment." Kennedy's 13 complaints to Riso and Shryock may not have involved the words "sexual harassment," and were 14 couched in terms such as "sick," "gross" and "disgusting." But in addition to her complaint to 15 Vantresca, Kennedy did directly complain to Riso and Shryock while she was still employed by 16 Dos Amigos.

17 11. Riso and Shryock had knowledge of the conduct of the cooks. Their denial of such 18 knowledge, in light of the detailed accounts of Kennedy and the corroborating testimony of 19 Blanc, Burrett and Randall about the conduct of the cooks, is not credible. Riso was in the 20 restaurant on a daily basis. Shryock was in the restaurant on at least a weekly basis. Both men 21 had ample opportunity to observe the interchanges between Horn and House and the waitresses, 22 even if most of the harassment occurred in the kitchen area. The loud foul language, the derisive, 23 suggestive and directly sexual comments and occasional "poking" of waitresses, were all there to 24 be heard and seen.

25 12. Dos Amigos' explanation that no action was taken because management lacked 26 knowledge of sexual harassment is also incredible given the conduct of the partners regarding 27 sexual harassment. Some of the waitresses who testified did recount a staff meeting at which the 28 sexual harassment policy of Dos Amigos was discussed. Riso indicated at this meeting, the date of which was not established, that sexual harassment was not acceptable. The waitresses who

1 witnessed Kennedy's harassment, and were subjected themselves to lesser degrees of such 2 harassment, also testified to a reluctance to complain about the harassment. They indicated 3 uncertainty about what, if anything, management could be expected to do if they were to 4 complain. John Shryock admitted receiving, during Kennedy's employ at Dos Amigos, one 5 complaint about Horn's language. In the only instance presented of any action being taken in 6 response to at least a minimal awareness that Horn and House were acting inappropriately, 7 Shryock waited until the end of the busy period of that shift, then stuck his head into the kitchen 8 and said, "Ed, cut that out." Dos Amigos neither took disciplinary action against Horn nor made 9 any record of this exchange.

10 13. Dos Amigos failed to enforce its own policies regarding sexual harassment. Charging 11 Party's Exhibit 1, the policy manual, identified major infractions justifying immediate discharge, 12 including "anti-social behavior." The manual defined anti-social behavior, in part, as being 13 "abusive toward a customer or fellow employee." The manual did not define sexual harassment 14 as a major infraction. Sexual harassment was a minor infraction, defined in part as "b. Verbal 15 abuse of a sexual nature; c. Graphic or suggestive comments about an individual's dress or body."
16 Minor infractions triggered a three step disciplinary procedure of verbal warning, then written 17 warning, then discharge. Dos Amigos did not follow this policy. Dos Amigos did not treat the 18 one half-hearted comment to Ed Horn as the first step of the three step disciplinary procedure for 19 a minor infraction. Dos Amigos took no action against the cooks for their continual harassment 20 of Kennedy.

21 14. Kennedy performed her daily job duties in a satisfactory, though not exemplary, 22 manner. She had two performance evaluations during the six months she worked for Dos 23 Amigos. Her two performance evaluations were mixed. Her demeanor was erratic, sometimes 24 resulting in praise from customers, other times resulting in complaints. Dos Amigos did not 25 discipline Kennedy for poor performance in either of the two mixed evaluations. Her mixed 26 performance reviews did not give rise to the decision to fire her.

27 15. During Kennedy's last shift, on June 8, 1993, she had an altercation with the cooks.
28 Ed House was giving her directions which included the usual verbal abuse. She responded to House's verbal abuse by saying, "I'll take [the food] out when I'm damned good and ready." She did not then immediately obey the obscenity-laced command to deliver an order to customers.

2 16. Supervisor Vantresca reported to Riso that Kennedy refused to take an order to 3 customers, and that the order sat for fifteen minutes and grew cold. Vantresca reported that 4 Kennedy was verbally abusive. Riso accepted as fact the kitchen staff's account of altercation on 5 June 8, 1993. Riso was not clear on whether he talked to the cooks as well as Vantresca about 6 the incident. He did not talk to Kennedy before deciding what had happened. Riso talked with 7 Shryock about the "continued tension" between Kennedy and the cooks. Shryock and Riso both 8 testified that when they met Riso had already decided to fire Kennedy.

9 17. On June 9, 1993, Riso asked Kennedy to come in and visit with him. She had no 10 indication of the reason for the meeting. She unrealistically expected to be promoted. Instead, 11 Riso fired her. Riso advised her that there were "some problems." He told her that her work was 12 substandard and that the kitchen staff found her intolerable. There is no credible evidence that 13 Riso ever obtained any detailed account from her of what had happened on June 8, 1993.

14 18. Dos Amigos did not discharge Kennedy for poor job performance, but for her refusal 15 to submit to the continuing sexual harassment. Her mixed reviews did not trigger disciplinary 16 action. Dos Amigos gave her no written warnings regarding job performance. The slow service 17 on June 8, 1993, arose out of Kennedy's resistance to the continued harassment. The one-sided 18 process of "investigation" led to an immediate decision to fire her as a solution to the "tension" 19 with kitchen staff. Had she continued to endure the harassment without lashing back, no 20 justification for her discharge would have been presented.

21 19. Dos Amigos' multiple explanations of why Kennedy was fired are not reliable. Riso 22 gave different explanations of why he decided to fire Kennedy. At first, called as an adverse 23 witness in charging party's case, he testified that he fired Caryn Kennedy for late service. He 24 stated that failure to provide reasonably prompt service is grounds for immediate termination.
25 This is not in the policy manual. According to Shryock, Riso's primary reason for firing Caryn 26 Kennedy was that in addition to multiple customer complaints, the continued tension between 27 ¹ During questioning by the hearing examiner, it was noted that Riso decided to fire Kennedy without 28 ever asking for her account of the incident. At that point in his testimony, Riso said that he had talked to her first. He provided no explanation of when or how he talked to her about the incident before deciding to fire her. This belated change in testimony was not credible.

1 kitchen staff and Kennedy was a serious problem. According to Riso, when he resumed
2 testifying in respondent's case after Shryock, he decided to fire Kennedy because of customer 3 complaints and refusal to deliver food on direction (basically, insubordination toward the kitchen 4 staff). Riso also testified that Kennedy "lied to them" numerous times. The "lies" involved 5 alleged discrepancies on guest checks, Respondent's Exhibit A, which have not been adequately 6 explained by Dos Amigos' witnesses. Dos Amigos did not establish when and how the 7 discrepancies were discovered. Dos Amigos also failed to show why the discrepancies occurred 8 or what their significance was. Respondent failed to prove whether the discrepancies were 9 deliberate undercharges, concealed errors, promotional discounts, honest mistakes or even 10 genuine discrepancies.

11 20. Kennedy's average monthly wage exclusive of tips was $711.02. Dos Amigos paid 12 her $4.10 an hour to work as a waitress. Charging Party's Exhibit 2 documented her hours of 13 work. Dos Amigos noted work times variably, sometimes on 12 hour basis and other times on a 14 24 hour (military clock) basis. The time records had minutes for some entries, and other times 15 tenths of hours appeared. With minutes and tenths of hours converted to consistent decimals, 16 Kennedy worked 520.25 hours from March 5, 1993 (the first date on the time sheet) through June 17 8, 1993. This period of 96 days was almost exactly three months. She averaged 173.42 hours a 18 month, at $4.10 an hour.

19 21. Based on the credible evidence of record, Kennedy's tip income averaged $10.00 per 20 hour, a reasonable figure for an evening shift in a restaurant with at least a partial liquor license.
21 Kennedy testified that she earned $70.00 to $100.00 in an average eight hour shift. Neither side 22 produced any tax records or business records which would rebut or support this testimony.
23 Kennedy testified both that she did report her tips to the employer, and that she did not. She 24 could not remember with certainty whether or not she did. Dos Amigos did not produce any 25 records of her tip income. Respondent had ample opportunity in discovery to obtain Kennedy's 26 tax records, and offered no evidence of a lower reported income.

27 22. Kennedy's average net tip income per month was 90% of $1,734.17, or $1,560.75.
28 Kennedy paid 10% of her tip income to the kitchen staff. This was part of the terms and conditions of her employment.

1 23. Kennedy's total wage loss was $22,621.24. She was unemployed until October 2, 2 1993. Her wage loss was $2,271.77 per month for the four months before she obtained any 3 work, for a subtotal of $9,087.08. From October of 1993 until June of 1994, she earned $580.00 4 per month working as a motel desk clerk. Her wage loss for that eight months was $1,691.77 per 5 month, for a subtotal of $13,534.16. In June of 1994, she obtained a second job, and her wage 6 loss ceased. Interest at 10% per annum on the lost amounts is $1,909.20 for the first year (ending 7 June 1, 1994), and $2,262.12 for each year thereafter, at $6.1976 per day.

8 24. Kennedy also suffered emotional distress. She still deals with the emotional 9 aftermath of the sexual harassment and firing. The environment in which she worked, and the 10 barrage of comments and behavior, caused her to feel "small," "naked," "helpless," 11 "uncomfortable." She had always thought of herself as a strong and good humored woman. She 12 found herself feeling degraded, "a nobody," "a walking display." Her demeanor and tone of 13 voice during her testimony, and the virtual absence of any expression during her testimony about 14 the particulars of the harassment (in an otherwise fairly animated witness), confirm that she 15 indeed suffered emotional distress as a direct result of the sexual harassment to which she was 16 subjected, and that the emotional distress she suffered has continued. She has not sought 17 professional help. The degree of continuing emotional distress is within her capacity to endure.
18 She is entitled, nonetheless, to monetary compensation for this harm. The amount appropriate to 19 compensate her for her emotional distress is $8,500.00.

20 25. There is a risk of further discriminatory acts by respondent against other employees.
21 The degree of blindness and indifference demonstrated in this case proves a clear risk of other 22 female employees being subjected to similar treatment.

23 IV. OPINION

24 Workplace harassment based on gender is an unlawful discriminatory practice prohibited 25 by the Montana Human Rights Act. 49-2-303(1), MCA. An employment environment 26 permeated with unwelcome and sufficiently abusive sexual comment alters the terms and 27 conditions of employment and creates a hostile working environment that violates the employee's 28 right to be free from discrimination. Brookshire v. Phillips, HRC Case No. 8901003707 (April 1, 1991), affirmed sub. nom. Vainio v. Brookshire, 852 P.2d 596 (Mont. 1993). Pervasive use

1 of derogatory or insulting sexual language directed toward an employee and addressed to her 2 because she is a woman is evidence of a hostile environment. Andrews v. City of Philadelphia, 3 895 F.2d 1469, 1485 (3rd Cir. 1990). See, gen., Anthony v. Cyphers, HRC Case No.
4 9401006105 (Feb. 24, 1995).

5 Caryn Kennedy was subjected to vicious, frequent and reprehensible instances of sexual 6 harassment. Three of the four identified harassers, John Vantresca, John Badewitz and Joe 7 House, were listed as witnesses. None were called. Kennedy's testimony regarding all four men 8 is essentially un rebutted. The facts of the harassment cannot seriously be disputed.

9 Respondent's primary attack upon Kennedy is upon her testimony that she reported the 10 harassment. Her testimony regarding a complaint to Vantresca is undisputed in the evidence.
11 Her testimony that Vantresca, the cook supervisor, participated in the harassment, is also 12 undisputed in the evidence. If this were the only evidence regarding notice, charging party would 13 prevail.

14 Montana has a statutory definition of notice, in 1-1-217 MCA:

15 (1) Notice is:

16 (a) actual whenever it consists of express information of a fact;

17 (b) constructive whenever it is imputed by law.

18 (2) Every person who has actual notice of circumstances sufficient to put a 19 prudent man upon inquiry as to a particular fact has constructive notice of the fact itself in 20 all cases in which, by prosecuting such inquiry, he might have learned such facts.

21 Vantresca was an agent, as employee and supervisor of cooks, of Dos Amigos, with the 22 power to report problems involving waitresses and cooks. He exercised this power to obtain 23 termination of Kennedy's employment. He could and should have exercised this power to advise 24 management of her complaints. Whether or not he did so, the knowledge he should have 25 conveyed to management is imputed to management.

26 As against Dos Amigos, both Dos Amigos and Vantresca are deemed to have notice of 27 what either knows and ought to tell the other. 28-10-604 MCA. "Knowledge of the existence of 28 a claim will be imputed to a party who has sufficient information to put it on inquiry notice of that claim. McGregor v. Mommer (1986), 220 Mont. 98, 108, 714 P.2d 536, 542." Benson v.
Pyfer, 240 Mont. 175, 180, 783 P.2d 923, 926 (1989). Vantresca's knowledge of Kennedy's complaint, of the harassment, and of his participation in the harassment, are all imputed to Dos Amigos under Montana law.

Federal law, to which the Commission looks for guidance, mandates the same conclusion.

1 "Employers are liable for failing to remedy or prevent a hostile or offensive work environment 2 of which management-level employees knew, or in the exercise of reasonable care should have 3 known." EEOC v. Hacienda Hotel, 881 F.2d 1504, 1515-16 (9th Cir. 1989). "[V]arious 4 circumstances may be considered in determining employer liability, such as the duties and 5 authority of the supervisor, and the existence and efficacy of anti-discrimination policies and 6 grievance procedures." Nichols v. Frank, 732 F.Sup. 1085, 1090 (D.C.Or. 1990). "Lack of 7 notice does not insulate the employer from liability, especially when . . . the harassing employee 8 was also the official through whom a complaint would otherwise have been lodged." Woods v.
9 Graphic Communs., 925 F.2d 1195, 1202 (9th Cir. 1991) (racial discrimination). See, also,
10 Mitchell v. Keith, 752 F.2d 385 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 472 U.S. 1028, 105 S. Ct. 3502, 87 11 L.Ed.2d 633 (1985); Miller v. Bank of America, 600 F.2d 211 (9th Cir. 1979).

12 But management's protestations of ignorance are not credible. Kennedy did not say to 13 Riso or Shryock, "I am being sexually harassed by Horn and House." She did complain of bad 14 language, sick remarks and gross and disgusting behavior. The testimony from four waitresses, 15 and even from Heather Schneider, who also admitted hearing the foul language of the cooks from 16 the front of the restaurant adequately establishes that management notice. Riso and Shryock had 17 eyes and ears. Had Kennedy said nothing, they had ample notice of what was happening. Her 18 complaints were more than sufficient to give rise to a duty to investigate and pay attention to 19 what was happening before the eyes and ears of management.

20 Kennedy testified that she had complained to Robert Riso and John Shryock as well as to 21 John Vantresca. She stated she made an initial complaint to Vantresca, but nothing changed.
22 She testified that she made several such complaints to John Shryock. She testified that she 23 complained to Shryock about the "drown you in semen" comment. He said to her, "We're 24 working with Ed and Joe." He told her he would speak to Riso about it. He denies recollection 25 of the complaints, and denies that the complaints occurred.

26 She also testified that she went to Riso to complain immediately after a remark about the 27 appearance of her nipples. Riso was in front of the restaurant. She told him about it and "he 28 seemed disgusted," but did nothing. She testified that she complained again to Riso, in his

1 office, after another evening of work and abuse. This time, her complaint was that Joe House 2 had said that he did not have to do anything she said, "that I was not his fucking manager and that 3 I could fuck off." Riso's response was that he would be speaking with John Vantresca. She 4 testified to subsequent complaints she made to Riso after that, as well. He denies ever receiving 5 a complaint of sexual harassment from Kennedy.

6 Riso and Shryock, in seeking to support their denials, focus upon the absence of 7 complaints in performance evaluations and in a post-firing meeting Kennedy inaugurated with 8 Shryock. Kennedy agreed that she did not complain about the harassment during performance 9 reviews. She did not see performance reviews as appropriate times to complain about 10 harassment. She says she did mention the harassment in the post-firing meeting. Shryock denies 11 it. Traci Boggs was present at the meeting at the home she shared with Shryock. She did not 12 hear such complaints while she was present. But whether Kennedy complained after she was 13 fired and before she filed a formal complaint is not relevant.

14 The testimony of Riso and Shryock about receiving no complaints before firing Kennedy 15 is simply not credible. Their stance of wronged innocence is not believable. Weighed against 16 the testimony of Kennedy, Blanc, Burrett and Randall, management appears blind, not ignorant.
17 Failing to see what is there to be seen is not a defense to a claim of sexual harassment.

18 In addition to the poorly explained guest checks and adding machine tapes, Dos Amigos 19 offered evidence of Kennedy's poor service. Shanna Mitton was called by Dos Amigos to testify 20 about Kennedy's poor service. Dos Amigos did not prove when Mittons had their experiences 21 with Kennedy. Most of Mitton's testimony was a recitation of how upset her ex-husband had 22 been about it. She testified that her husband was so angry at the slow service and lack of 23 courtesy from Kennedy that they stopped coming to the restaurant. She testified to her ex-24 husband's contact later with management about the poor service, and to receiving a gift certificate 25 and an apology as an inducement to return as customers. The gift certificate, Respondent's 26 Exhibit 3, is dated June 16, 1993. This complaint as well as the management response could 27 have happened after Kennedy was already fired. Dos Amigos did not prove that the Mittons' 28 order was delayed on June 8, 1993. Dos Amigos did not prove that the Mitton complaint triggered the firing.

1 Despite having complaints as well as compliments about Kennedy's service from the very 2 beginning, Dos Amigos took no disciplinary action against her. There is no evidence that 3 Kennedy was given warnings that her performance was not satisfactory, much less that her job 4 was in jeopardy because of her performance. The evidence adduced about her performance, 5 after-acquired or otherwise, fails to establish a non-pretextual and legitimate, non-discriminatory 6 business reason for her discharge. She was fired because she was not getting along with cooks 7 who were viciously harassing her.

8 Retaliation is not a precise term for the impetus to charging party's termination.

9 To prove retaliatory discharge, the appellant would have to show that (1) she was 10 discharged, (2) she was subjected to sexual harassment during the course of employment, 11 and (3) her employer's motivation in discharging her was to retaliate for her resistance to 12 those sexual harassment activities. Holien, 689 P.2d at 1300.

13 Foster v. Albertson's, Inc., 254 Mont. 117, 127, 835 P.2d 720 (1992), citing Holien v.
14 Sears, Roebuck and Co., 689 P.2d 1292 (Or. 1984).

15 Kennedy's discharge resulted from her resistance to the sexual harassment, but she was 16 not discharged for complaining about it. She was fired for refusing to accept the harassment as a 17 condition of her employment. This is a "quid pro quo" discharge rather than a retaliatory 18 discharge. It is part of the charge of sexual harassment. Retaliation has not been proved. Sexual 19 harassment has been. Dos Amigos fired Kennedy for resisting the harassment, creating "tension" 20 between Kennedy and the harassers.

21 Once a violation has been proven under state or federal civil rights statutes, then 22 emotional harm is compensable if the claimant establishes that (1) distress, humiliation, 23 embarrassment or other emotional harm actually occurred, and (2) the harm was proximately 24 caused by the unlawful conduct of the respondent. See, among others: Carey v. Phipps, 435 25 U.S. 247, 264 at n. 20 (1978) (42 U.S.C. 1983 action, denial of voting rights); Carter v.
26 Duncan-Huggins Ltd., 727 F.2d 1225 (D.C. Cir. 1984) (42 U.S.C. 1981 employment
27 discrimination); Seaton v. Sky Realty Company, 491 F.2d 634 (7th Cir. 1974) (42 U.S.C. 1982 28 housing discrimination based on race); Brown v. Trustees of Boston University, 674 F.Supp.
393 (D.C. Mass. 1987) (unlawful denial of tenure opportunity, based on sex); Portland v.
Bureau of Labor and Industry, 61 Or.Ap. 182, 656 P.2d 353 (1982), affirmed 298 Or. 104, 690
P.2d 475 (1984) (sex-based employment discrimination); Hy-Vee Food Stores v. Iowa Civil Rights Comm., 453 N.W.2d 512, 525 (Iowa, 1990) (sex and national origin discrimination).

1 Compensable emotional harm resulting from a civil rights violation can be established by the 2 testimony of the injured party alone, Johnson v. Hale, 942 F.2d 1192 (9th Cir. 1991), and, in 3 some circumstances, can be inferred from the circumstances. Carter v. Duncan-Huggins, Ltd., 4 supra; Seaton v. Sky Realty Co., supra; Buckley Nursing Home, Inc. v. MCAD, 20
5 Mass.Ap.Ct. 172 (1985) (finding of discrimination alone permits inference of emotional distress 6 as normal adjunct of employer's actions); Fred Meyer v. Bureau of Labor & Industry, 39 7 Or.Ap. 253, 261-262, rev. denied, 287 Ore. 129 (1979) (mental anguish is direct and natural 8 result of illegal discrimination); Gray v. Serruto Builders, Inc., 110 N.J.Sup. 314 (1970) 9 (indignity is compensable as the "natural, proximate, reasonable and foreseeable result" of 10 unlawful discrimination).

11 The award for emotional distress in this case is slightly more than half that awarded in 12 Arrotta v. V. K. Putman, Inc., HRC Case Nos. 9101004544 and 9109004736 (Sept. 29, 1993).
13 For other examples of such awards, and the bases for them, see, Stensvad v. Towe, 232 Mont.
14 378, 759 P.2d 138 (1988) ($5,000 for mental anguish evidenced by family testimony of 15 embarrassment, sleeplessness, reluctance to go to Rotary Club meetings); Brookshire v. Harley 16 Phillips, et al., op. cit. ($20,000 award as a result of sexual harassment in the workplace); Webb 17 v. City of Chester, 813 F.2d 824 (7th Cir. 1987) (§1983 employment discrimination case, 18 $20,250 awarded for embarrassment and humiliation although claimant only employed for two 19 weeks); Brown v. Trustees of Boston University, 674 F.Supp. 393 (D.C. Mass. 1987) ($15,000 20 award for emotional distress resulting from discriminatory loss of tenure based on sex); Paxton 21 v. Beard, Case No. GC89-327-S-0, 58 FEP 298 (N.D. Miss. 1992) ($15,000 award for mental 22 distress in §1983 action in federal court, termination due to pregnancy); Shelby v. Flipper's 23 Billiards, HRC Case No. RPa-800185 (January 1983) ($5,000 in denial of public 24 accommodation on account of race); Capes v. City of Kalispell, HRC Case No. SGr83-2121 25 (January 1985) ($750 award for sex based refusal to register child for city baseball).

26 Affirmative relief is also necessary in this case. The blind eye of Dos Amigos may be 27 opened to sexual discrimination by the monetary award to charging party. But it is impossible to 28 assume that will be the case. Therefore, the partners should be required to attend classes

1 designed to focus their attention upon the importance of policing sexual harassment in their 2 workplace.

3 V. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

4 1. Respondent, BE Team Limited Partnership, Montana Partnership, dba Dos Amigos, 5 Robert Riso, general partner, subjected charging party, Caryn Kennedy, to sexual harassment by 6 employees of respondent on a continuing basis throughout her employment, and retaliated against 7 her for complaining of and resisting the discrimination, in violation of of 49-2-301(1)(a) and 49-8 2-303 MCA.

9 2. Charging party is entitled to recover $31,121.24 for harm caused by the violation of 10 her rights by respondent and pursuant to 49-2-506(1)(b), MCA. Charging party is also entitled to 11 prejudgment interest on the lost wages portion of the award, at 10% per annum, in the amount of 12 $4,877.84 to September 23, 1996, and continuing at an additional $6.1976 per day until the final 13 order issues.

14 3. The circumstances of the violation of charging party's rights by respondent indicate that 15 affirmative relief, in addition to an order that respondent refrain from engaging in unlawful 16 discriminatory conduct, is necessary to minimize the likelihood of future violations of the Human 17 Rights Act.

18 VI. PROPOSED ORDER

19 1. Judgment is found in favor of charging party and against respondent in the matter of 20 Caryn Kennedy's complaint that respondent, BE Team Limited Partnership, Montana 21 Partnership, dba Dos Amigos, Robert Riso, general partner, subjected her to unlawful sexual 22 harassment while employing her, and discharged her because she failed to submit to the 23 harassment.

24 2. Judgment is found in favor of respondent on the complaint of retaliation.

25 3. Respondent is ordered to pay to the charging party the sum of $31,121.24 for the lost 26 wages and emotional harm caused to her by the above described unlawful discriminatory acts, 27 with interest from the date of the final order in this case.

28 4. Respondent is ordered to pay interest at the statutory judgment rate, in the amount of $4,877.84 to September 23, 1996, and thereafter until paid at $6.1976 per day.

5. Within 90 days of the final order in this case, the general partners involved in this case, Robert Riso and John Shryock are ordered each to attend four hours of training, conducted by a professional trainer in the field of personnel relations and/or civil rights law, on the subject of preventing sexual harassment in the workplace. Upon completion of the training, the Riso and Shryock shall each obtain the signed statement of the trainer indicating the content of the training, the date it occurred and that each of them attended for the entire period. These statements of the trainer shall be submitted to the Commission staff not later than two weeks after the training is completed.

6. Respondent is further ordered not to violate any of the rights of its employees as protected under the Montana Human Rights Act.
